

Your article is in the Top 100 Scientific Reports Physics papers in 2017

Dear Alexis Vossier,

It is our great pleasure to inform you that your research article 'Band Gap Engineering of Multi-Junction Solar Cells: Effects of Series Resistances and Solar Concentration' received 534 article views in 2017, placing it as one of the top 100 read physics papers for Scientific Reports in 2017.*

Scientific Reports published more than 3000 physics papers in 2017, and so a position in the top 100 most highly read articles is an extraordinary achievement – your science is of real value to the research community. You can access all the highly accessed articles within this category by visiting our Top 100 in physics page.

What next?

- The Scientific Reports team will be promoting your article in the coming weeks via the journal's social media channels.
- Spread the word of your achievement by adding this graphic in your email signature, presentations, or social media. Please share this good news with your corresponding authors too.

We would like to thank you for your contribution to Scientific Reports and very much hope you will consider publishing with us again.

Best wishes,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads 'Richard White'.

Richard White, PhD
Chief Editor, Scientific Reports

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads 'S. Farley'.

Suzanne Farley, PhD
Executive Editor, Scientific Reports

*According to nature.com web analytics, covering 2017